Adblock Plus comes by default with Acceptable Ads enabled, though this can be turned off easily at any time. By using the Acceptable Ads feature, you are still blocking annoying and intrusive ads, but allowing some nonintrusive advertisement. This allows content producers to receive monetization for their work and helps create an environment of fairness and sustainability for user, advertiser, and creator alike. Learn more Each Adblock Plus feature functions because of a filter list. You can use pre-made filter lists or create your own. By default, EasyList, which corresponds to your browser's language setting, and the Acceptable Ads list are enabled to get you started. You can remove them or add others - it's up to you. Important: Eyeo GmbH, the company behind Adblock Plus, did not draft EasyList and, therefore, has no right to, or control over, its content. Visit the EasyList Community for more information. In no case will Eyeo be held liable towards you or any other party for any loss or damage (including, but not limited to, loss of chances and of business) deriving directly or indirectly from your use of such lists. Adblock Plus blocks all annoying ads on the web by default, including video ads on YouTube, Facebook ads, flashy banners, pop-ups, pop-unders and much more. This is possible based on the filter list(s) you've selected. Simply install Adblock Plus and, if you'd like, customize it to fit your unique browsing needs. Since many websites rely on advertising revenue, Adblock Plus's default settings encourage the use of nonintrusive advertising rather than annoying, irrelevant ads. To accomplish this, we've established a set of strict guidelines known as the Acceptable Ads initiative. Together with our users and third-party contributors, we have defined acceptable ads and outlined appropriate ad placement and size. Ads meeting these criteria are visible. You can, however, disable this feature at any time and browse ad-free. With every browsing session, there are multiple firms tracking your online activity and browsing history. Hundreds of ad agencies are tracking your every move. With Adblock Plus, you can easily disable most tracking and browse the web more anonymously. According to Stanford University research, the EasyPrivacy tracking protection filters are the most efficient of all available tracking protection solutions, and can extend the tracking protection of Adblock Plus. To enable this feature, open this dialogue and click Add. Buttons used to share content on social media platforms such as Facebook, Twitter, Google Plus and others are placed on almost every website that you visit. Even if you don't click them, these buttons send requests to the social network's servers which then uses the information to create a profile based on your browsing habits. Adblock Plus can disable social media buttons from websites, ensuring that social networks cannot create a profile based on the websites you visit. To enable this feature, open this dialogue and click Add. Adblock Plus is the most popular browser extension available for Mozilla Firefox, Google Chrome, Opera and Android. Its primary purpose is to remove all intrusive advertisements from your browsing experience: YouTube video ads, Facebook ads, banners, pop-ups, pop-unders, background ads etc. How does Adblock Plus work? In order to block ads, Adblock Plus requires the so-called filters to "tell" it which requests to block. Out of the box, Adblock Plus comes without any filters, but, it will offer you to add a filter subscription on first start. With these filters enabled, it can block specific requests from websites, usually the requests to serve an ad. Blocked ads often leave blank spaces or "Advertising Tags" on webpages. Adblock Plus is still able to remove these with a functionality called "element-hiding": based on certain specific characteristics, Adblock Plus is able to hide certain elements from the webpage. Installing Adblock Plus For Firefox If you use the Mozilla Firefox browser, click the install button on the Firefox installation page. Firefox will prompt you to allow Adblock Plus to install the add-on: Click on "Allow". Firefox will start the installation of our ad block, and will ask you to confirm that you trust the author. Click on "Install Now" to add Adblock Plus to your Firefox browser. You are now protected against all intrusive ads! For Chrome Google Chrome allows two ways to install our ad block software. The easiest way is through our website, the second way is through the Chrome Webstore. Installation through our website in two steps Simply go to the Chrome installation page and click on the install button to add the ad blocker to your Chrome browser. Click on "Add" when the following dialog pops-up in your browser: Adblock Plus will be installed into your browser. You know it has been successful if the following message shows up: Installation through the Google Chrome Webstore in three steps If you wish to install Adblock Plus through the Chrome Webstore please click here to open ABP. The following screen will open our adblock for Chrome: In this screen, please click on the blue "Add to Chrome" button in the top-right corner. After clicking this button, the following pop-up will ask you to "Add" Adblock Plus to your browser: After confirming, you will be protected against all obtrusive online advertising by world's most popular ad blocker! For Opera To install Adblock Plus on Opera, go to the Opera Add-ons page and click on "Add to Opera". The following pop-up will show up: Please confirm by clicking on "Install", and Adblock Plus will block ads in your Opera browser. First steps As previously described, Adblock Plus requires filterlists to block ads. By itself, Adblock Plus can only see the webpage you are loading, but has to be "told" by the filterlist which elements to block. When you install Adblock Plus for the first time, it will automatically suggest a filterlist to you based on the language settings of your browser. There are a two basic lists out there, EasyList and Fanboy's List. These two lists block the ads from the most popular (often English) websites. However, these lists do not block ads on less popular national websites. In the case that you, for example, come from Germany, you will have to subscribe to the national German filter list. In this case, this will be "EasyList Germany + EasyList". An overview of all the lists can be found here. It is important to note that you should not add too many filterlists to Adblock Plus. This will slow down the adblocker, therefore, your browsing. As a rule of thumb, it is highly recommended to not use overlapping filterlists (e.g. choose either EasyList OR Fanboy's List). You can also use filterlists to protect yourself against tracking, malware, social media tracking etc. Read more about this here. If you want to remove a filterlist again check out this tutorial. On Android Uninstalling Adblock Plus for Android is similar to any other app you have downloaded: Navigate to Menu > Settings > Applications > Manage applications (on devices running Android 4.x, Settings > Apps). Scroll through the list of apps to find the one you'd like to uninstall. Tap on the app you'd like to uninstall. Tap "Uninstall". Solving problems What if Adblock Plus blocks too much? It might happen that Adblock Plus prevents some site from functioning correctly. Usually, this is not a bug in Adblock Plus but a problem with the filters (or filter subscription) you are using, these filters tell Adblock Plus to block something that shouldn't be blocked. You verify this by temporarily disabling Adblock Plus, if this "fixes" the problem you are dealing with a bad filter. Please report bad filters by using "Report issue on this webpage" feature that will automatically collect important data of the current web page: When asked about issue type, please choose "Adblock Plus is blocking too much": Your report will be automatically sent to the maintainers of the filter list that you use. Please have understanding that filter maintainers don't reply to or act upon each of the many reports they receive. Your report will be more likely to be considered if you provide additional information to make the problem more obvious and reproducible. What if Adblock Plus doesn't block an advertisement? If you found an advertisement that Adblock Plus doesn't block, please check first whether you are using the right filter subscription. For example, expecting a French filter subscription to block advertisements on a Bulgarian website is unrealistic — you should add a Bulgarian filter subscription for that job. If the filter subscription is right, then the subscription maintainer is probably simply unaware of the problem and you should tell him by using "Report issue on this webpage" feature that will automatically collect important data of the current web page: When asked about issue type, please choose "Adblock Plus doesn't block an advertisement": Your report will be automatically sent to the maintainers of the filter list that you use. Please have understanding that filter maintainers don't reply to or act upon each of the many reports they receive. Your report will be more likely to be considered if you provide additional information to make the problem more obvious and reproducible. This allows content producers to receive monetization for their work and helps create an environment of fairness and sustainability for user, advertiser, and creator alike. Learn more Adblock Plus is a free extension that allows you to customize your web experience. You can block annoying ads, disable tracking and lots more. It’s available for all major desktop browsers and for your mobile devices. Adblock Plus is an open source project licensed under GPLv3 and subject to its Terms of Use. How does Adblock Plus work? Choose what you want to see when browsing the web by using filter lists to block unwanted elements, like ads or tracking. What are filter lists? Filter lists are sets of rules that tell your browser which elements to block. You can block as little or as much as you want. Choose from pre-made, externally maintained filter lists, or create your own (English only). Almost all pre-made filter lists are created, published and maintained by users for users under open source licenses. Many ads have tracking built in and some may even contain malware. Because of this, Adblock Plus provides certain levels of tracking and malware protection by default. If you want, you can add additional tracking and malware filter lists to increase your protection. Default filter lists The following filter lists are enabled by default when you install Adblock Plus: Blocklisted Ads A filter list that blocks ads (e.g. EasyList) based on your browser’s language settings. eyeo GmbH is not related to the EasyList project and therefore has no right to, or control over, its filter list content. Visit the EasyList Community for more information. Acceptable Ads A feature that supports a better web by allowing nonintrusive, respectful ads that comply with the Acceptable Ads criteria agreed upon by the Acceptable Ads Committee. This list is open source. Want to block all ads? No problem. Click here to learn how. These filter lists are enabled to get you started. You can keep them, modify them, remove them and / or add other filter lists - it’s up to you. How is Adblock Plus financed? Our main source of revenue comes as part of the Acceptable Ads initiative, which is managed by an independent committee. Implementing the Acceptable Ads criteria is part of eyeo’s (the company behind Adblock Plus) attempt to pursue a different vision of online advertising. It requires significant effort on eyeo’s side including, but not limited to, ongoing review and monitoring of the individual allowlisted ads, advising participants, and providing technical support. These services cannot be done as a hobby, or completely taken over by volunteers. Therefore we only charge large entities a license fee so that we can offer the same allowlisting services to everyone and maintain our resources to develop the best software for our users. NOTE: Around 90 percent of licenses are granted for free to smaller entities. We qualify an entity as large when it gains more than 10 million additional ad impressions per month due to participation in the Acceptable Ads initiative. For a large entity, our licensing fee normally represents 30 percent of the additional revenue created by allowlisting its Acceptable Ads. Every entity on the allowlist - paying participant or non-paying participant - MUST maintain the same strict criteria that our users accepted as part of the Acceptable Ads initiative. We will never accept any ad that doesn't meet the criteria, and there is no way to buy a spot on the Acceptable Ads list. All allowlisted ads and participating entities are publicly listed on our forum. Feel free to discuss and share your opinions. About Acceptable Ads NOTE: We don't think all ads are bad and recognize that ads finance many websites. That’s why we believe that partial ad blocking is better than full ad blocking. Back in 2011, after discussions with Adblock Plus users and our community at large, we began implementing the Acceptable Ads initiative. The initiative outlines strict criteria that identify nonintrusive ads. Thanks to the initiative, Adblock Plus users have the option to display certified ads that are part of the Acceptable Ads initiative or to disable the feature and browse free of annoying ads. Since 2017, the Acceptable Ads initiative is governed by an independent committee that wants to make advertising better. To learn more, visit AcceptableAds.com. To view the list of Acceptable Ads, visit the Acceptable Ads proposals forum. Advertisers and publishers that want to adhere to the Acceptable Ads criteria can apply to be added to the Acceptable Ads allowlist. Only large entities that gain more than 10 million additional ad impressions through their participation are required to pay a monthly fee. For more information, read about how we are financed. Adblock Browser blocks intrusive and malicious advertisements, while supporting website creators by allowing Acceptable Ads by default (this, however, is configurable).
