And he removed from thence, and digged another well; and for that they strove not: and he called the name of it Rehoboth; and he said, For now the Lord hath made room for us, and we shall be fruitful in the land. - Genesis 26:22 (KJV) The scripture teaches us about physical breakthroughs as major progress that overcomes significant obstacles, often bringing miraculous results. Physical breakthroughs can manifest in various areas such as wealth, science, warfare, or academics. Historical instances of physical breakthroughs include Abraham laying the foundation for future generations, Isaac's prosperity in Gerar surpassing even his father's, Jacob's scientific advancements, and Solomon's multidimensional successes through sacrificial endeavors. Does giving or sowing facilitate breakthroughs? Breakthroughs often signify a change in circumstances from negative to positive. Examining biblical instances illustrates this concept. Given article text here Looking back at the story of Isaac. God made a promise to him that his seed would multiply as abundantly as the stars in heaven and that all nations would be blessed through his seed. This happened because Isaac had obeyed God's voice and kept His commands. Isaac settled in Gerar, where the local leader, Abimelech, warned everyone that touching Isaac or his wife would result in death. Despite this warning, Isaac was successful and received a hundredfold harvest in the same year. The Lord blessed him abundantly, causing him to grow greatly in wealth, possessions, and servants. However, not everyone was happy with Isaac's success. The Philistines envied him due to his prosperity. 1. Breakthroughs in scripture are characterized by remarkable advancements or changes from a lower state to a higher one. This can be seen in instances like Jacob's increase of sheep (Genesis 30:37-43) and Solomon's multidimensional breakthrough through sacrifices (2 Chronicles 1:6-12). 2. The examples suggest that sowing or giving often facilitates such advancements. 3. A breakthrough can also signify a change from negative to positive circumstances, as seen in the lives of Obbedom, Jabez, Peter, the widow of Zarephath, Naaman, Elizabeth, and the widow with overflowing oil (1 Chronicles 13:13-14; 2 Kings 5:1-14; Luke 1:5-7, 57). 4. These instances emphasize that divine intervention is essential for a physical breakthrough. 5. Therefore, individuals seeking breakthroughs must turn to God for help and guidance.
