

I'm not a robot

I like this game, but there are a few things that irritate me. First of all, when you are in the lobby and say there are three people there and 2 are ready, you have to wait for the third person. Its annoying as I just want to start the game, and most times they are never ready so I have to leave the lobby and come back. Also, many times when I start it glitches and pauses and makes me start again. I have to refresh the page lots of times before I can actually play. I dont like how you have to personally collect the money from the bank every time you go pass a payday, I think it would be a lot faster and better if it does it automatically as it slows the game. Lastly, I think the difference between the Millionaire Mansions and the other retirement home should be made clear because I am not aware of any difference so dont see the point. Otherwise its a fun game and I enjoy playing it. Game description: The game of life is a computer version of the famous board game.
