With updates to older Angry Birds games, the company keeps the franchise fresh and gets new generations of players while at the same time, running a marketing operation that might be the second best after Disney. We've seen those Angry Birds on everything from candy to t-shirts to bedding. You don't even have to own a mobile device to know who the Angry Birds are. Update to Angry Birds Rio lets you super-size your Birds The latest update comes to Angry Birds Rio. The festive game was originally launched back in March 2011 and received an update with 12 new levels almost a year later.The latest update for the game brings 24 new levels, but to obtain them, they must be earned by the player. You need to collect stars to earn 18 special star levels, and collect feathers to receive 6 Mighty Eagle levels.The new update to Angry Birds Rio brings Super Scope laser targeting, which sounds bad for the pigs, and Super Seeds help super-size your birds. There are also some new power ups called Samba Burst and TNT Drop. The former lets you "dance your way to destruction," while the latter allows you to send a "special delivery". There are now 204 levels in Angry Birds Rio and the update should have already arrived if you previously had downloaded the game. If not, you can head to the Google Play Store or the Apple App Store and download it now.source: GooglePlayStore, AppStore, PocketGamer via AndroidAuthority Angry Birds Riootra vez se conoce las aves en el centro de atención, fueron secuestrados y llevados a la mágica ciudad de Rio de Janeiro, desde donde el éxito huyó y fue a rescatar a sus amigos loro.
