Have you ever been protested and demonstrated against? Jackie Robinson felt the outcry of America during his baseball career. Fighting not only for his future, but also for the overall well-being of his sport, Robinson received death threats for his efforts. On a daily basis, this disciplined African man fought the pressures of hatred toward his entire race. As a segregated country, America saw major league baseball as a white man's sport. Robinson was the outlier in an otherwise American "tradition." Society observed Robinson's play on the field with extremely bias eyes. No matter the achievement; no matter the obstacle; many still discredited his abilities due to the color of his skin. Over time skeptics gave in to their malice. Robinson broke the color barrier in American sports! Through perseverance and a stable mind, Jackie Robinson shattered the segregation of sports and started a revolution! Although, sport equality is not completely perfect in this world, Jackie Robinson's contributions towards American sports, desegregation, and society will never be forgotten throughout the world. The "Color Barrier" is an infamous term in the world of sports. Originally deemed an unbreakable hindrance, the thought of integrating any American sport was unfathomable! Upon Jackie Robinson's arrival to the sport of baseball, irritation swept the nation. If any sport were to break through the prejudice of a country, it was baseball! In the article Historic Impact it says, "Had Jackie Robinson integrated professional football or basketball, he would be a forgotten figure today. But breaking the color barrier in baseball would present a new image of the U.S. to the world" ("Historic" 2).
