Haiti was the first and only country in the history of civilization whose independence is the result of a successful slave rebellion (Haiti Interesting Facts). Haiti's beautiful geography, deep history, interesting people, diverse lifestyle, and complex society are very fascinating topics.

Geography

Haiti has many interesting and beautiful land formations. It is located on the Western part of the island Hispaniola. Haiti is covered in mountains. In fact, it is two-thirds mountainous. The rest of the country features many beautiful valleys, steep plateaus, and grassy plains. Its climate is hot, humid, and tropical. The North winds bring fog and precipitation that interrupts Haiti's dry season in November through January. In February and May it is very wet and humid. The Northeast trade winds bring the rain in during the wet season. The average rainfall is two hundred to four hundred centimeters per year. In the summer, the average temperature is 15°C to 20°C. In the winter, the temperature is normally 25°C to 35°C. The climate and land forms have greatly affected the country.

History

Haiti has a long and interesting history. On December 6th, 1492, Columbus founded Haiti. When Spain tried to take it, the land the Native Arawaks fought back, because it had been their ancestors land for hundreds of years. Inevitably, they lost to Spanish rule. In 1697, the French took over and changed Haiti's name to Saint-Dominique. It became one of the leading producers of sugar cane. The downside to the sugarcane industry was only the slaves knew how to plant and harvest it so the industry failed. The slaves revolted in 1791, resulting in a Declaration of Independence being written in 1801, under the leadership of Pierre-Dominique Toussaint l'Ouver...
