There are two things in common with all the x-rays taken. They all have a story and all the stories are shared with the man or woman taking the x-ray. Almost everyone will have at least one x-ray in their life. Most x-ray technicians can make an impact on their patients' life, no matter if it is a good or bad impact. While the patient is sitting there in minor or crucial pain, the x-ray technician has to distract them from the pain while they move them to take the x-rays.

Most people do not understand just how important x-ray technicians are. An x-ray tech could lead to incorrect diagnoses if they do not fulfill their duties right (Career). They have many responsibilities: they are to load x-ray film cassettes, to take radiographs and digital photos, to develop, fix, wash, dry, and file x-ray film, to keep records of x-ray film, and they have to assist scheduling for the x-ray clinics (Become). "X-ray technicians use cutting-edge imaging methods to visualize, treat illnesses, or injuries with great accuracy" (Spako). They use a lot of different equipment to take images (Spako). X-ray techs use traditional x-ray machines, computerized axial tomography, magnetic resonance imaging, fluoroscopy, film, and digital mammography (Spako). Another name x-ray technicians will get called is radiographers (Decker). "Radiographers and their colleagues in the radiology lab provide a vital service, improving doctors' ability to diagnose and treat patients for a variety of illnesses" (Decker).

X-ray Technicians work in many places; some include a hospital, doctor's clinic, or a laboratory (xraytech). "About 61% of x-ray technicians work in a hospital" (Become). Most of them work weekends, and holidays; some of them also work night shifts (Spak...
