What does it mean to be human in a technological age? After I read the article by BILL MCKIBBEN, "THE POSTHUMAN CONDITION", I have a deep thoughts and feelings about our technological. Over time, human technology in the rapid development of this, just as the author mentioned stable " Most of this work leads in exciting directions-toward new and better cancer drugs, a vaccine for AIDS - but such research may also lead to something much darker: to attempts at genetic engineering human beings in the womb, designing our children to make them smarter, prettier, better." No doubt, technology has brought to our human life was very much affected. Whether it is life, thought, or the environment. In this technology era of the people are happy, but it is also sad. In this society, everything has two sides. There is also wrong for. Technology brings us not only have advantages as well disadvantages. This is human nature disappeared. Heard a recording "Voice box and flute" from Sarah Greens's CBC audio documentary, that the mechanization of people does not feel any emotional response, as if no life. This is the technology easy with about the same time to give us our sorrow. Being Digital - how tempting this word, to make people's lives today can achieve unprecedented precision, because the whole universe of space can be seen as a virtual network, a small planet is just one node, from 0 to 1 well into the digital portfolio of your ideas, your life, all around you people and events that have occurred or not occurred in the presence of do we really have to change from it? Humans from birth to now the most solemn theme is the survival and development, from nomadic to farming, from hand to machine large-scale production w..... middle of paper .....s and fetters, human and create a beautiful reality in the future - the network society and network of civilization, mankind entered the new century and will also usher in a new civilization, the height of the dry, technical civilization will be fully shared replaced by the information civilization, cooperation, openness, interaction, sharing will become the core of civilization and the main theme, to understand that civilization must now learn to prepare, discarded human nature selfish, greedy, malicious and jealous, self-denial in order to complete meet the new dawn of civilization. Spengler in "Decline of the West" at the end of the Roman orator quoted a passage past Nijia "willing to go the fate led, pulled along by the fate willing." Humans only the courage to face their ugly, to go complete life of Nirvana. Often tragic life of a noble throe of production.
