The Supreme Court of the United States ruled that the Constitution guarantees a right to same-sex marriage. Is this a good thing? The legalization of gay or lesbian marriage has been a touchy subject for some time now some say it should be and some say that it shouldn't be legal. The subject should not be taken lightly and should require most some serious thought as to which side they choose to be on. Most people have a hard time with this subject because of long term moral debates they have with themselves because maybe they have family members that choose this lifestyle or may actually be considering it themselves. This controversial topic is interesting and usually told from only one perspective. So whether or not people support gay marriage this paper should be read and maybe it will open some new doors for the reader. Legalizing gay marriage would not only distort children's views of what's right, but also it would create a generation of mass confusion about the definition of marriage, opening all kinds of doors to the dark side of humanity.

To begin with gay marriage as a whole is completely wrong in most eyes if that has not already been picked up by people yet. There are many overwhelming cons and things that would be bad to society resulting from this legalization. The increase in benefits having to be paid by employers would increase due to their now being considered married. The thing that is so bad about this is because not only are they taking money away from people with families and mouths to feed but there giving it to gay couples just for being married. This in a way gives them incentive to marry not because they love each other but because it could bring a money outcome.

An idea behind it is if this gets I...

...mental problems caused by this type of reproduction and sense of not belonging to the right people in a way. This would occur almost indefinitely more if the legalization of gay marriage were to occur and would create many children in this type of situation that can be avoided. This would be detrimental to society as a whole and create a generation that's highly confused and totally unaware of how marriage is supposed to be established.
