An extensive Grand Theft Auto: Vice City Official SoundTrack Set band sounded that contain the latest music from the game's radio stations, while more hits. The compilation CD 3 also launched. Whodini's "Monsters Come Out at Night" can be heard in one scene, but it is not included in any of the game's radios." The MP3 player" only supports .OGG and .mp3 music formats (as well as shortcuts to those file types). The GTA Vice City soundtrack arrangement was a big move by Rockstar Games: Unlike previous games in the series, which relies heavily on original creations, GTA Vice City has an overwhelming majority of licensed content, with only 5 or Iginal Songs. Previous games Very counted on strength original creations produced by Rockstar staff. The game consolidates the use of a radio track from the original policÁa created especially for it. V-ROCK V-ROCK is hosted by Lazlow and plays hard rock and heavy metal. After that, the songs can be played in the game of a common vehicle that changes the radio station 3 until they reach "Tape", also, the player can change the music in the game with the D-Pad. This is the first soundtrack in the series to feature predominantly licensed content. "Tape" requires the player to copy songs from an audio CD to the Xbox on the "Music" menu of the original Xbox instrument panel [2], so that the game can read songs from the Xbox hard drive. The biggest attraction of In Vice City, it is, for the first time, in the Rockstar series it could produce commercials that deal with an earlier era, here by showing the typical atmosphere and the mentality of people and communication means. This song' n't appear in the iOS, Android, PS2 Classics editions (PS3, PS4 and PS5), nor in the definitive one. Tracks are played in alphabetical order according to their file names and cannot be skipped. The previous games in the series used a police track geneÄ© used in countless movies, series and games ("5 George K, No. 30 Broad Street" is said on the track), with the exception ³ GTA London (which used an original police track with British accents and references to places in London). There are 10 radio stations in the game, with 1 custom station modified by the player. Commercial Main article: Commercials at GTA Vice City The commercials at GTA Vice City expanded enormously from the commercials of the previous game. Instead, the emergency vehicles have a policÄÄ radio, specially recorded for the game, which is a change from the previous games in the series. Each segment focuses on a particular topic, and ChÄ vez presides over a debate on the topic among several guests with different backgrounds, views or approaches. In addition, the European edition ³ the Flash FM soundtrack CD contains the following songs, which do not actually appear in the game: Radio station not selectable There is a radio station not selectable in the game. This is Vice City News, which was scheduled to appear in the game as a news radio station, but was discarded during development. They are: Radio Espantoso Radio Espantoso is a Spanish-language radio station conducted by Pepe and broadcasting Latin jazz, mambo, son, salsa and Latin funk. "Tape Deck" requires the player to create a playlist ³ music on their iOS device called "VICECITY", and to add songs to that playlist ³ n. Many of the songs appear in the scenes, and some are scheduled to sound in parts of a mission ³ n; for example, Michael Jackson's "Billie Jean" begins to ring when the player enters his first time at the beginning of the game. This custom radio station is called "MP3" MP3 in in the PC port, "Tape" in the Xbox port, and "Tape Deck" in the iOS port. On 6 December 2012, GTA Vice City was released on iOS and Android to celebrate the game's 10th anniversary. K-Chat K-Chat is a celebrity talk station hosted by Amy Sheckenhausen. Three such issues are broadcast within the game. It would be later included on the classic rock radio K-DST in Grand Theft Auto: San Andreas. The bulk of the soundtrack is made of contemporary 1980s music by an overwhelming majority; however, the soundtrack also features a few songs from the 1950s, 1960s and 1970s. Some products advertised are: "Ammu-Nation" (the firearms store that is "leading the war against communism" and that has film festivals where they "screen the documentary "Red Dawn"), "Yuppie and the Alien" (a "Miami Vice" meets "ALF" police drama that teams up a human cop and an alien "that could vaporize dissidents in Alpha Centauri but in this precinct [he has to] do it by-the-book") and the "Domestobot" (a domestic helper robot for people that tried hiring a nanny but desisted after she wanted health insurance). Since GTA Vice City, all the GTA games that have included a police track have used a track created especially for that game. MP3 Player/Tape Deck GTA Vice City allows players to play their songs in the PC, Xbox and iOS ports of the game. The logo of "MP3 Player" is just a "palette swap" of the logo of the "MP3 Player" custom station from GTA III. They act as the game's soundtrack and can also be heard in the Audio menu, while the game is paused. Due to being the first game made in the 3D Universe that was set in an earlier era, Rockstar had enough technological advances to showcase the music, clothes, atmosphere and thus, the typical commercials of the '80s. However, over the years, song licenses expired, and therefore some songs were removed from these versions of the game. Five songs in this soundtrack were original creations (2 for V-Rock and for dreadful radio). Inserting custom music into "MP3 player" is simply placing music files in the "MP3" folder located within the main game folder (i.e. Program Files \ Rockstar Games \ Grand Theft Auto Vice City \ MP3). [1] See also References Most radio stations play a mix of music, DJ Chat and Spoof Advertising. It only has one program, called press themes, which is hosted by Maurice Chávez. In the count of the game's 10th anniversary, many songs were removed because of expired licenses. The only station ³ to retain its full soundtrack was Wave 103. Trivia The original soundtrack featured 103 songs. For the XBOX version³ a CD must be installed on the console hard drive. These songs don't appear on any of the game's radio stations. The following people were interviewed: Fever 105 Fever 105 is hosted by Oliver "Ladykiller" Biscuit and plays disco, soul, funk and r & b. Several of the stations also reappear in Grand Theft Auto: Vice City Histories, which is a direct prequel to the game. The highest number of songs was from 1983, with 21 outstanding songs. The authors of the original songs are included on one side the title of the song³ in SuperScript. You can receive several radio stations on radios in the largest range of vehicles in Grand Theft Auto: Vice City. 2) GTA VICE CITY - All radio stations Part 2GTA Vice City - All radio stations Part 3 (Rev.
